H. A. Wolff, President of St. Louis Drug Clerks' Association, Tells His Afflicted Friends How They Can Be Quickly Cured.

HE KNOWS BY EXPERIENCE.

"I do not often talk about a manufactured medicine," said H. A. Wolff, president St. Louis Drug Clerks' Association, and Chief Chemist at Raboteau's Drug Store. Broadway and Lucas avenue, which is undoubtedly the best known store of its kind in this locality, when talking to a Republic reporter. The subject of constipation sufferers and the little relief they secure from the various treatments, was under discussion. In his many years' experience as a druggist Mr. Wolff has closely observed the results of these treatments, and after the statement above quoted he continued by saying that the Germans had found the one remedy which quickly and permanently cures the worst cases of Constipation.

. A. Woiff, President of the St. Louis Drug Clerks' Association, Talks In-terestingly on Constipation.

"Constipation." Mr. Wolff said, "is the fallure of the bowels to carry off the undigested food which collects in the alimentary canal and there decays, generating poisonous disease germs which find their way into the blood by which they are carried to every tissue of the body. Ill health sets in. Malarial fever never occurs except in cases of constipation. The lungs, the kidnevs, the heart, in fact, any organ of the body is liable to break down under the attacks of these disease germs. The blood becomes thin and watery. The sufferer loses in flesh and strength. Pilis and the ordinary catharties will not cure an affliction like this. Something more than a laxative is needed."

"Alone the klyses Phine and Neckar in loses in flesh and strength, Pills and the ordinary cathartics will not cure an affliction like this. Something more than a laxative is needed."

"Along the Rivers Rhine and Neckar in Germany the natives discovered many years ago that the free enting of the grapes and other fruits that abound there is the gratest health-producer and flesh-bailder known. To-day this locality is the site of some of the world's greatest sanicariums, and people go there from nearly every country to take the Tranbenkur, or grape cure. J. Pierpont Morgan has just resurned from there and Charles Schwab, president of the steel trust, is taking the treatment now. A company of progressive chemists of Rock Island, Ill., are preparing this same treatment here in America from the imported fruits. I know the remety will cure, for to my personal knowledge there are persons here in this city who have suffered for years from the same weak, diseased conditions that I have just described, but who are now well and strong as the result of taking this medicine. I would tell you who they are, except that they might object to such use of their names. The remedy is known as Mull's Grape Tonic. As the name indicates it is a crushed fruit preparation. As a laxative it immediately clears the bowels of the decaying food and as a tonle it is much superior to any preparation of cod liver oil and other like flesh producers. It builds flesh faster and creates strength quicker than any other preparation I know of. I wish I could meet every constipution sufferer in this town face to face and tell thom how much I know and believe in this wonderful remedy. I know they would all thank me for doing so. We sell Mull's Grape Tonic at 50 cents a bottle and it goes with a positive guarantee that If it does not benefit it can be brought back and the purchase price will be returned. If you suffer from constipation come and see me. For sale by Raboteau & Co., Broadway and Lucas.

HUSBAND WAS JEALOUS OF CAT.

Wife So Declares in Petition Asking for Separation.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
New York, Feb. 21.-With the signing of New York, Feb. 21.—With the signing of an interiocutory decree of separation in favor of Mrs. May Juillerat her domestic trouldes with her husband, Albert, to whom she was married on February II of last year, have been terminated. Six months of married life was sufficient for this pair. She charged that cruelty, religion and drink caused their domestic woes, in addition to the fact that he was jealous of her dog and cat. She charged that he beat and abused her, and, in paroxysms of rage, he would kick and rush about the house, beating his head against the wall.

The husband said his mother-in-law was to a large extent responsible for their differences, because she did not like him. Moreover, his wife's relatives and friends ridiculed the idea of her having married a man shorter than herself. When his wife walked with him along the street, he said, she would hide her wedding ring so that people would not think they were married. Ehe denied these statements.

The George Washington Handicap, the feature of the card, brought out a big field. Karrick's pair, Sheriff Bell and De Reszke, Karrick's pair, Sheriff Bell and De Reszke, were favorites at 3 to 1. Sheriff Bell was the one relied upon by the stable to win. He ran a good race, but was not equal to the task of conceding the weight he was asked to do to older and seasoned horses. The race was closely contested into the stretch. Then Albert F. Dewey and Harsis drew away from the others, Albert F. Dewey winning handily by two lengths. Hargis beat St. Tammany handily for the place.

L'ETIENNE RETURNS TO LIFE.

Let Out Several Lengths of Daylight Which Was Never Closed -Winslett's Mounts Restricted to Stable.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 21.—Carnival visitors at the Fair Grounds to-day swelled the attendance to one of the largest of the meeting. Miss Roosevelt, Miss Root and their party drove to the track and saw the first two races decided, after which they returned to the city.

Hargis beat St. Tammany handily for the place.

Hargis was crowded and interfered with in the stretch, and Nitrate was last of the tot at the start and all but left at the post. He ran a game race, but, after his disadvantage at the beginning, he could never get up, although he finished strong. With an even break, he would have been in the money, and might have won.

L'Etienne was favorite in the six-furlong sprint, backed from even money to 3 to 5. The fast track suited her. She was away hadly, but Winkfield rushed her right to the front, opening a gap of five lengths on the back stretch. She won easily by four lengths from Sadducee, who heat Federal a head in a hard drive for the place.

Emshee, a pronounced first choice in the first, had all the worst of it. He went around his field, and in the stretch outfinished Ciorita, winning by a length. Mollle T. was only beaten a neck for second money.

Right and True, favorite in the second.

ished Ciorita, winning by a length. Molle
T. was only beaten a neck for second money.

Right and True, favorite in the second,
was beaten by the start. He was away poorly and was not well handled by McCafferty, who made too much early use of him.
Athlana was the best, and with a good ride would have won. She was beaten a head by Royal Deceiver in a drive, Sweet Alice third, a length back.

Cogswell won the fifth in a drive by a length, from Carar; Jack Doyle, beaten in a drive for second money.

Edna Riley won the last in a drive from Maltster; Denny Duffy a poor third.

Texas Foreman and U. X. Dearman both claimed Bud Embry in the fifth race for $1.525. They drew lots for the horse, and Foreman got him. Mr. Corrigan then claimed Carat, partly owned by Foreman, for $2.25. Balm of Gilead was sold this morning to R. M. Westerfield for $2.300.

Aurie B, broke a leg while at exercise this morning, and had to be destroyed. The stewards issued a ruling that in future Winslett's mounts would be restricted to the Corrigan stable.

LEADER WON THE HANDICAP.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 21.—The mile handicap was the feature of the card at Ingleside to-day. Peter J. was favorite dur-ing the first part of the betting, but there was a strong play on Leader at the close, and he won handily. The judges have deand he won minding. The judges have de-cided to investigate the recent races of Leader and Sad Sam in the Jennings string. The California Derby, at a mile and a quar-ter, will be run Monday. The weather was fine and track fast, Sum-Alsgiver. Slapdash, St. Germain and Dark Secret also ran.

W. K. VANDERBILT A "PIKER."

Ring a Place.

Ring a Place.

San Francisco, Feb. 21.—Wm. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., fooled the regulars at the Inzleside track Thursiay. He made a unique record as a plunger. Calling a commissioner he sent to the ring a bet on Mechanus, quoted at 4 to 1. The many men who watch the clubhouse bets followed the commissioner. To their amazement he bet one silver dollar for Mr. Vanderbilt. Mechanus won.

won.

Encouraged by his success, Mr. Vander-bilt wagered a five spot on Andrew Ring to run second in the next race. Andrew fin-ished in the place. That ended Vanderbilt's plunging for the day, and the railbirds who "rubbered" declured that the Eastern mil-lionaire is a piker.

Holtman to Start at Churchill Downs Louisville, Ky., Feb. 21.—Jake Holtman was to-day engaged by Manager Price of the Louis-ville Jockey Club to do the starting for the coming spring meeting at Churchill Downs. Holtman is at present engaged upon the Cali-fornia tracks.

Marque Will Not Start. New York, Feb. 21.—Marque has been declared out of the Suburban handleap. This makes the fifth horse declared out.

Prospects Good for a Successful En-tertainment at Philadelphia. Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 21.—Macon Mc-Cormick's benefit, which is to be held in Industrial Hall, Philadelphia, on the night of March 4, promises to be a tremendous success, judging from the hundreds of boxers of the old and new school who are anxious to don the mitts in aid of Macon and from the encouraging reports of the committees in other cities who are soliciting subscriptions.

and from the changing and from the committees in other clies who are soliciting subscriptions.

John P. Eckhardt, who is chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, has already received nearly 1309, James J. Corbett starting the subscription with a contribution of 1100. Tom Sharkey, Jack McCormick, George Tracey, Corse Payton, the theatrical manager; Edgar Murphy, Harry M. Stevens, George Kessler, Charles Dieges, Patrick T. Powers, Sam Harris and John Ryan of Brocklyn all sent contributions of from 15 to 150, swelling the fund to 1509. Ben Benton, the Boston newspaper man, has contributions from Boston sports amounting to more than 1120.

Louis Cincinnati, New Orleans, Baltimore Committees in Chicago, Pittsburg, St.

and San Francisco also report progress, and it is expected that the outside subscriptions together with the receipts from bouts March 4, will not be less than $2,000.

The committee is arranging a boxing programme for the benefit. Old-timers such as Billy Edwards, Arthur Chambers, Professor Billy McClean, Professor Mike Donovan and Jimmy Clarke will again don the padded mitts in friendly bouts.

Dominick McCafferty, Jack McAuliffe, "Brooklyn Jimmy" Carroll. "Dull" McCarthy, Horace Leeds, Bill Gabig, Jack Fogarty, Jimmy Ryan, Jack Daley and other retired champions, will also lend their ald, as will Peter Maher, Jack O'Brien, Terry and Hughey McGovern, Tom Sharkey, Jack McCormick, Dave Sullivan and Kid McCoy. Mr. McCormick has had a relapse and his physician has very little hopes of being able to restore him to health, as another complication has set in which has rendered the patient helpless in the lower limbs.

KID McCOY'S THIRD DIVORCE SUIT.

KID MCCOY'S THIRD DIVORCE SUIT.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Feb. 21.—For the third time Norman Selby, better known as "Kid" Mc-Coy, will be divorced from his wife, if an action begun for him yesterday by Howe & Hummel is successful, and he has assured his attorneys that under no circumstances will be for the fourth time marry, the woman.

his attorneys that under no circumstances will he for the fourth time marry the woman.

Besides the suit for divorce from his wife, Selby has brought an action for $100,000 damages for alienation of his wife's affections against Raigh Thompson, who is named as co-respondent in the divorce case. Papers in both actions were served late this afternion on Mrs, Selby and Thompson, who have been for two days at the Rossmore Hotel. According to Selby's complaint, they returned to this city on Thursday from a trip to Japan, for which they sailed last August, while the former prize fighter was in Europe.

Mr. Thompson has been well known in New York for several years. He formerly lived in Schenectady, where his father was a man of considerable wealth and president of one of the leading banks of the place. His mother was a Miss Ellis, daughter of the founder of the Ellis Locomotive Works.

INDOOR TENNIS UP TO FINALS.

Calhoun Cragin Wins in Both Doubles and Singles in Semifinals. and Singles in Semifinals.

New York, Feb. 21.—The play to-day in the tennis tournament for the indoor championship of the United States in the Seventh Regiment Armory advanced to the ininteresting stage—the finals—to-day.

Calhoun Cragin is the prominent man in the tournament, for by to-day's results he is left in the finals of both doubles and singles. He defeated Shepherd Homans in the semifinal round of the singles in the most interesting game of the afternoon. Wylle C. Grant beat W. B. Cragin, Jr. Much disappointment was expressed at the failure of the intercollegiate champion doubles team, E. W. Leonard and W. J. Clothier, to appear for their matches, the contest to W. C. Grant and Robert Leroy. The summary:

PROGRESS ON CUP DEFENDER.

Are Long and Lean.

Are Long and Lean.

Bristol, R. I., Feb. 21.—Excellent progress has been made this week in the construction of the cup defender, and the underbody admidships lacks little of being entirely completed and rivetted.

Some of the plates on the bilges have been carried out on the overhang, and from this it can be seen that the yacht's lines are very long and lean. The main mast for the boat is now complete and the plates have been curved and the braces laid down for the main boom.

CENTRAL LEAGUE'S PRESIDENT IS A LOVER OF BASEBALL.

George William Bement Has Been Follower of National Game Since

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Evansville, Ind., Feb. 21.-George William Evansville, Ind., Feb. 21.—George William Bement, Jr., of this city, president of the Central Baseball League, composed of Evansville, Terre Haute, Marion, Anderson, Fort Wayne, South Bend., in Indiana; Dayton in Ohio and Wheeling in West Virginia, is a young man. He has been a lover of the national game all his life. He was born and reared in Evansville, and, after graduating from the public schools, went East to finish his education. He spent several years in the universities of Germany, While in school he took a deep interest in athletics.

existence was recognized as the leader among the minor leagues of the country.

Evansville and Terre Haute had become, through the personal efforts of Presidents Bement of the Evansville team and L. D. Smith of the Terre Haute team, far too strong, as baseball towns, to associate with some of the cities in the old Torce-I. With the idea in view of organizing a league more compact and stronger in every way, Mr. Bement, associated with Mr. Smith and Mr. Maunter of Fort Wayne and C. W. Haldeman of Maron, began the organization of the Central League. Speaking of the new league, Mr. Bement said: "I believe it will become one of the strongest minor leagues in the West."

minor leagues in the West."

Why Charlie Comiskey stopped playing ball has been told by various writers and in a variety of ways, but Joe Cantillon tells one on the master of the Chicago White Sox that never before came to the surface until a few days ago, when the manager of the Brewers was in Milwaukee. "I asked Commie one day," said Cantillon, "why he had doffed the spangles, and this is the reply I got: When I was playing first base for the St. Louis Browns and winning championships the baseball writers handed me all kinds of hot air. Every day they told what a great player I was, and not a week passed without my picture being in the papers. This was pleasing, for every man has a spot of vanity in his make-up, and I felt all swelled up over my playing; but after a few years I began to slip a little and make a few breaks. Then the tone of the papers grew cooler, and finally they began to take a few falls out of me. As I fell down they began to roast me, and my family did not like it, so I stopped playing on the team, and ever since sat on the bench."

Mike Donlin will have for a side partner in the Cincinnati club Harry Wood, a University of Maryland boy. Just how Mike will pull with the "College-Education" fielder is worrying Garry Hermann. If the college boy commences to fan Mike about "Pantheism," or twits him about the lunacy of Hamlet there'll be something doing in a purilistic way.

DONAHUE TO COACH YALE. Former Pitcher of the Browns Har Been Engaged by University. New Haven, Conn., Feb. 21.—Captain Burnside Winslow of the Yale 'Varsity baseball team to-night announced the ap-pointment of Frank Donahue, a member of the St. Louis American League team to assist Head Coach Murphy in coaching to assist Hear Coach Marphy in Coachies the team.

Donahue, who is a pitcher, will have charge of the candidates for that position. He will spend the entire month of March with the team.

RICH MEN'S SONS

WHO DON OVERALLS. An apprenticeship in overalls is required now of the young man who would take his place as a specialist in mechanics or as a captain of industry. After three or four years in a university he must take his course of professional work in the branch he intends to enter. After he has spent three or four years in actual work in the shops he is prepared to step on the industrial ladder which he is trying to mount. Workshop instruction for college graduates is of comparatively recent origin. The self-made captains of industry have not been willing to concede that a college man could have any practical knowledge of affairs. Since the college man has taken to overalls he has become respected in the workshops.

In Altoona the Pennsylvania Railroad has a sort of hospital for broken-down engines, and there among the smoke-begrimed workmen one will find a little colony of men from the universities working for $1$ a day. Young fellows just out of Harvard, Yale and Cornell, who some day will succeed their fathers at the head of great plants, are working from 7 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening learning to build locomotives, freight cars and passenger coaches. They have a regular course of work as carefully planned as any of their studies in universities.

The Great Northern Railroad runs another apprentice school like this, and more than one financier has sent his boy, just out of college, to the post-graduate school which President Hill conducts in these shops.

which President Hill conducts in these shopa.

In the great electric manufacturing works at Schenectady, N. Y., is one of the greatest workshop universities in the country. There one can find men from all countries and all universities working side by side.

There are men from different American schools with students from England, Scotland, France, Germany, Switzerland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Spain, Italy, Russia, Brazii, Mexico, Canada, Siam and Japan, representing all the leading engineering schools in the world.

Probably nowhere else in the world can be found such a cosmopolitan colony of university men. Two young men will be testing a motor, intended, perhaps, for a London underground railway or for a South African gold mine, and one young man will be from the University of Toklo, Japan, and the other from the Ecole Polytechnique in Paris.

be from the University of Tokio, Japan, and the other from the Ecole Polytechnique in Paris.

Working beside a voung student from London University will be a man from the famous German technical school at Charlottenberg. The student apprentices who have gone through the work at Schenectady are to be found in electrical engineering in all quarters of the globe.

These young men will be found engineering underground railways in London, power plants in the Alps, mining installations in British Columbia, municipal railways in New Zealand, lighting systems in Japan, power transmission projects in India and elevated railways in New York.

All the student apprentices start at 12½ cents an hour. As they become more proficient their wages are increased in size. Some of them at first do not earn their saiaries, but some soon are pushing ahead. The course is elastic-one, two, or three years may be spent in this preliminary training.

The officials are on the lookout for bright men, as the managers usually get their assistants from the student corps.

SPOOKS FRIGHTEN MONTANA MINERS

Men Affirm That Isolated Cabin Near Shaft, Is Scene of Ghosts' Revels.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 21.—In the Big Hole Basin, at the head of Miner Creek—a stream which pushes itself through a deep gorge in the main range of the Rocky Mountains—is a little cabin, which is said to be haunted. the main range of the Rocky Mountains—is a little cabin, which is said to be haunted. It is situated at the head of a waterfall and the rush of the waters as they bounded their way down the mountain was the only sound that broke the stillness for years. Within the last few years the Ajax mine has been worked to a considerable extent and quite a large force of miners has been employed in its development. The lonely cabin is situated along the trail which led from the Ajax bunkhouse to the mine. It is in a picturesque spot, with great, tall fir trees rising above it, and making a gloomy and forbidding background, especially in the darkness of the night, when spirits are said to walk abroad.

For a long while the miners of the Ajax passed by this little cabin without a fear or without giving it a second thought.

Now they make a long detour to avoid it in the daylime and scarcely a miner on the job has the hardihood to pass within several hundred yards of it when the shifts are chanced after nightfail.

They contend it is haunted and the discovery was only made a few months ago, when the mine was running three shifts, and these were changed about midnight. It was about midnight recently when it was first said that supernatural beings haunted the place. Two of the most reliable miners at work on the mine came down the hill to the bunkhouse and after awakening their relief told them that some one was working in "Dutch Gus" cabin, that they had seen a light and thought they could distinguish forms moving around in the cabin.

SCOPFERS ALSO FRIGHTENED.

SCOPFERS ALSO FRIGHTENED. SCOFFERS ALSO FRIGHTENED.

These men who took the relief saw nothing as they went to their work and chaffed their fellow-miners the following day to a considerable extent about their nightmare.

That night these two scoffers, while going to their work, also saw a light in the old cabin and they, being curious, started to investigate. They crawled up to the cabin and, looking through the chinking of the walls, saw a strange-looking man sitting by the empty fireplace muttering to himself. Other forms seemed to hover about him. The light which flooded the little cabin had a phosphorous hue, and the men who the empty fireplace muttering to himself. Other forms seemed to hover about blim. The light which flooded the little cabin had a phosphorous hue, and the men who watched the principal figure had their eyes riveted on the fireplace. They could not, in spite of their own will, take their gaze from the form huddled over the fireplace. Finally, after what seemed an age, the form by the fireplace straightened up and started as if to leave the cabin. Then they could see that it was a man old and bent, and his neck appeared to be drawn out to twice its natural length. One of these men who watched had long been a resident of the basin and he took just one look at the odd-looking figure and he screened his eyes and screamed in terror.

"It's Dutch Gus!" As the words left his mouth the light went out and the vision disappeared. The only sound that could be heard was the frightened scramble made by the men as they stumbled over the rocks and fallen timber in their effort to get back to the bunkhouse. Once there they told their story, and since that time not a man has had the hardlhood to visit Dutch Gus's cabin after nightfall. The light has been seen in the cabin several times since then, but not a man has had the courage to investigate the matter—no one has cared since then to meet the "greater part of his life in the mountains. He found some claims on Miner Creek and worked them to a considerable extent. Three years age this winter he had a cabin mate who was known by the title of "Deaf Smith."

One day the men had a row. Gus was lying in bed and he did not like the way his companion went about getting breakfast, and they ouarreled. One word brought on another, and Dutch Gus finally reached for his gun, which was just over his head. Smith made for the door and as he went out of the door he threw his hand back, pointed his pistol toward the bed and pulled the trigger. The bullet found a mark in the man's body and he fell back on the bed mortally injured.

It was decided to take the body to the valley for burial, and as there was no other means of getting it out it was wrapped up in a bianket and dragged out on the snow to a point which could be reached with sleighs. In coming down one or two steep places the body ran ahead of the men who were pulling it, and it was thrown against a tree on two or three occasions with considerable violence. The result was that the neck of the dead man was stretched to double its normal length before the bottom of the canyon was reached.

Now it is said that the spirit of Dutch Gus has returned to earth to haunt the place where he died, and the men who watched the spirit that night as it sat, huddled over the fireplace, say that the refrain of the muttering they heard all dealt with the elongation of his neck at the time the body was taken to the settlements.
